Dust Swirls Over Kansas, Oklahoma

Dust storms billowed over Kansas and Oklahoma Tuesday in a heat wave that intensified a winter drought endangering croplands from the Great Plains to California.

A Kansas farmer said "it was just plain dirty everywhere" as the storms swirled powdery soil as high as 11,000 feet and temperatures soared into the high 70s and mid 80s in much of the Grain Belt. Winds gusted up to 50 miles an hour in parts of Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma and Texas. Dry conditions also were reported in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and New Mexico.

In California, the nation's top food-producing state, the drought already has caused crop losses of $310.5 million. Grain crops refused to come up in the usually fertile San Joaquin Valley and cattlemen shipped beef to market underweight due to a lack of range grass.

Much of the nation's Grain Belt has had little rain or winter snow cover this winter and smaller winds storms previously caused some damage. In Kansas alone, 1,072 of the state's 59,000 wheat farmers, about 1.8%, filed federal disaster claims before this week's dust storms.

Despite the poor conditions, farmers and agriculture officials were not ready to concede a

Don Paarlberg, chief economist for the Agriculture Department in Washington, said it be made. Crops such as winter wheat "can make a substantial recovery" if they get spring moisture, Henry Ratzlass, 57, who operates a 960-acre wheat farm west of Mineola, Kan., said visibility was near zero at times and several roads were closed. Similar conditions were reported in the Oklahoma Panhandle.

"It was just plain dirty everywhere," Ratzlass said. "There was dirt on the sidewalks digging in. The sky was kind of a yellowish, light brown cast. It just blew so bad you thought it was cloudy weather.

Ratzlass said 60 acres of his wheat were a total acreage, "possibly one-third of it is pretty well

FEBRUARY 11, 1976

He said production in the southwest quarter of Kansas, hardest hit by the dry weather and winds, "could easily be cut a fourth. Every day that we don't get moisture, you can deduct a little more. It hasn't rained since December in some areas and some didn't even get that."

In Texas, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said, "The next few weeks will determine the balance sheet for a lot of farmers and ranchers." Unless rain falls soon, he said, many farmers will not plant spring crops.

had rain since last summer," White said "We were counting on snow and winter rains to provide needed moisture for our 1976 crops. But the rains haven't come. Without rain in the next few weeks, the state grain crop will be severely reduced."

Ratzlass said some plains farmers have irrigation "and they're not hurting so bad. But if this continues, they'll not be able to pump enough

"I grew up on a farm. I wasn't involved in the '30s, but I was in the '50s when it was dry and it was similar to this. Just a couple (of dust storms) more like this and a good amount of the area will be a complete disaster

Dry Weather Hurts Wheat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said Tuesday that the nation's winter wheat crop has continued to deteriorate because of drought in the Great Plains. In the top producing state of Kansas, growers say their 1976 harvest will be the smallest in eight years.

Although experts say there is little chance of the United States running out of wheat, a sharply reduced crop could help drive up prices of grain generally and ignite another round of spiraling consumer food prices.

According to the department's Crop Reporting Board, winter wheat as of Feb. 1 was "below normal" in most areas of the country.

"Kansas wheat prospects are good in the eastern third of the state but poor to fair elsewhere," the board said. "Low topsoil moisture and short vegetative cover left many wheat fields subject to erosion from strong winds.

Meanwhile, the Kansas association of Wheat Growers estimated that the state's 1976 harvest will be 250 million to 275 million bushels, down 21 to 29 per cent from last year's bumper crop of more than 350 million bushels.

A related USDA report Tuesday said that dry weather has continued since Feb. 1 and that in the past week the Great Plains crop still suffered from 'dry soils and virtually no snow cover" to protect it from the wind.

The severity of the winter drought raises prospects that the 1976 winter wheat harvest which accounts for about three-fourths of all U.S. wheat — will be substantially smaller than USDA's tentative estimate of 1.5 billion bushels announced on Dec. 22. No new estimate will be made by USDA until May 10 and department officials have cautioned that the Dec. 22 estimate depended much on whether the crop gets normal moisture through the winter and early spring months.

Although important as bread grain, wheat does not bear as heavily on consumer food prices as corn and other livestock feed grain used to produce the nation's meat, poultry and milk. But a skimpy wheat crop would probably fan prices of other grains upward and make it more expensive to feed

High grain prices the past two years forced farmers to cut back on livestock production, thus contributing to higher retail food prices. Record crops last year, however, have resulted in lower grain prices and have opened the way for more livestock production.

DA gave that retail food prices are expected to rise at an annual rate of 4 to 5 per cent through midyear, compared with an 8.5 per cent increase for all of 1975. They rose 14.5 per cent in each of the two previous years. Farmers harvested a record total wheat crop of 2.1 billion bushels last year, enough to supply domestic and export demands plus allowing some buildup in reservesby the time 1976 harvest is Thus, according to USDA, even if this year's wheat harvest is reduced sharply - short of widespread catastrophe - there is no indication that the country will run out of wheat. Further, most winter wheat outside of the driest parts of the Great Plains is looking fairly good and farmers still have the spring crop to plant.

CHANGING THINGS? ... Martin hopes his dimes (4,145) will help.

Martin, a senior in Teachers College from Denver, Colo., decided to pay his second semester tuition — $414.50 worth - in dimes for what he considers to be two good reasons.

"Everytime I go to the administration building I get a run-around," said Martin of the hureaucratic tangle that. in part, prompted his action.

In addition, Martin - who is working two jobs and can still "barely pay my bills" - said he resents the

Whether or not the gesture made him feel any better, one thing is certain: Martin wasn't popular at the bursar's office Tuesday.

After some official phone calls were made (a half hour's worth of phone calls), Martin was asked to come into the office and count the coins.

And so, Martin, UNL Bursar James Wickless and a campus security guard transported the carton full of dimes over to the Gateway branch bank in the Student Union where the dimes were counted and exchanged for currency.

Into Wastebasket Committee Kills Exon's Budgets

Star Staff Writer

Choosing to proceed to consider changes in its own tentative budget recommendations, the Legislature's Appropriations Committee Tuesday killed Gov. J. James Exon's budget bills.

Upon the motion of Sen. Shirley Marsh of Lincoln, and without a dissenting vote, the committee deposited the governor's proposals in the wastehasket Senators then began a detailed examination of Exon's budget recommendations for the University of Nebraska in preparation for final decisions on its own proposals.

Jon Oberg, the governor's budget analyst for NU operations, said Exon's plan would require the university to generate more revenue on its own so that increased tax support can be used for additional. rather than replacement, fun-

"It is time the tax dollars were put back to work again for salaries, supplies and equipment," he said.

Oberg challenged President D. B. Varner's contention that recent studies showed NU in the bottom half of the Big Eight in financial support, and said the university has placed too much emphasis on goals other than teaching, research and public service.

Among them, he said, are competition with other institutions, expansion of university activities, funding for new buildings and bonds, pork barrel activities and income redistribution through more reliance on tax support to keep tuition low. 'In Top Half'

Despite claims to the contrary, Oberg told the senators, "the consensus of all recent studies on university tax support is that Nebraska is indeed in the top half of the Big Eight.'

(Varner's statements were directed at total financial support.)

And, despite statements to the contrary. Oberg said, an in-dependent faculty compensation study of the American Associa-

"found for the past two years that total compensation (for faculty members on the Lincoln campus) is about at the average of the Big Eight."

If the state funds the obligations it has already assumed to improve NU programs, Oberg said, the university will probably be fully competitive with other regional institutions "in the very near future.

Low Ranking Where NU ranks low in the Big Eight is in "self-generated funds," he said. Exon's budget called upon the university to raise $4.5 million

That would be $5.9 million more than NU estimates will be available from those sources.

Raising cash fund ceilings will not "by some magic" create more revenue, Moeller said.

Some 250 people jammed the City Council chambers Tuesday night and not one of them had a good word to say about three proposed intersection improvements. Citizens told the City Council that of concrete medians would destroy the residential character of their neighborhoods and destroy businesses in University Place and College View and near 20th and Cornhusker Hwy. At issue was the Public Works Department's proposed alternatives to improve 48th and Leighton Ave., 48th and Pioneers Blvd. and Cornhusker Hwy, near 20th and Yolande.

The council indicated it would make changes on the 40th and Leighton plan and on 4th and Pioneers Blvd., plan. However, no official action will be taken until next Tuesday during the regular council meeting.

Wearing vellow paper signs depicting a traffic signal with the words "See the Light" imprinted on them. residents of the University Place area spoke against any improvements at 48th and Leighton.

Bill Bowmaster, who treated the council to a slide show, said Leighton is a residential street. People are concerned that the taking of trees and subsequent street widening would "put the street light right up against their bouses."

'Trees Take Priority' John Lux testified that, "trees, grass, front lawns take priority over traffic, speeders and more traffic."

Others suggested that improvement of Leighton east of 48th would set up a chain reaction calling for further widening of 48th. The result, people surmised, would be to turn Leighton to a Speedway between 40th and 56th.

Bowmaster said adoption of the major reconstruction option at that intersection would violate the council's recently stated policy of discouraging street widening projects which would harm neighborhoods.

Members of the Near-South, Fremont and Clinton neighborhoods supported that position

Although the people urged the council to take immediate action to tall all proposals, the lawmakers declined to Leighton west of 48th is a four-lane roadway, with medians and is designated an arterial. The street east of 48th is only two lanes and is considered a collector street.

Residents and husinessmen along S. 48th in the College View area also told the lawmakers they objected to the proposed widening and median construction in their area.

Under the major reconstruction proposal, both streets would become four lanes. North of Proneers Blvd. 48th is four lanes, but is only two lanes south of that east-west street.

Other Plan Requested

On that proposal, the council directed the Public Works Department to come up with another, less drastic proposal for handling traffic problems.

Businessmen along Cornhusker Hwy, near Yolande also objected to a proposal to block off Younde from the highway.

The council also asked for a report outlining what things are required to receive federal and state funds and how much it would cost the city to make lower grade improvements. The issue arose when several people

DAU Recognizes MPLA Forces

By The Associated Press

The Organization of African Unity has recognized the Sovietgovernment of war-torn Angola, OAU chairman Idi Amin said Tuesday The move handed Western-supported factions a diplomatic defeat on top of battlefield reverses

Amin, president of Uganda, announced at a cabinet meeting Tuesday in Kampala that his country had become the 26th of the OAU's 46 members to recognize the government formed by the Popular Movement (MPLA)

The MPLA is fighting two Western-aided factions in Angola the National Union (UNITA) and the National Front (FNLA) - for control of the former Portuguese colony.

Amin, in a broadcast by Uganda radio that was monitored in Nairobi, said recognition by a majority of OAU member states automatically settled the question of which faction legitimately represents Angola in international affairs.

UNITA and FNLA followed a the hands of Soviet-equipped MPLA forces led by 11.000

Cuban troops. UNITA has confirmed the fall of Huambo, its capital in South central Angola, backed faction as the sole and the FNLA has virtually been pushed out of Angola in the north

In Washington State Department spokesman Robert Funseth said that despite the latest diplomatic victories of the Popular Movement the United States still believes the best solution in Angola is the formation of a coalition government of all three factions

Jane Bergerol of the London Financial Times reported from Luanda that the MPLA was driving toward Luso, in east central Angola, and south along tte coast to the ports of Lobit and Benguela. She said if the twoprong advance was successful, there appears a strong likelihood that the FNLA-UNITA forces inside Angola will collapse.

In Washington, President Ford was quoted by the Washington Star as saying congressional refusal to support his request for American aid to The diplomatic defeat for Angola demonstrates that "they've lost their guts." He told series of battlefield reverses at a reporters' group at a breakfast meeting he thought Congress "may have learned a lesson" and

"live to regret" its refusal to give aid to pro-Western factions ın Angola.

In New York, black leader Roy Innis called on President Ford and Congress to send jet planes, helicopters, tanks and rockets to the forces fighting the Soviet-backed faction.

Innis, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said in an interview in New York on the CBS "Morning News" that he hoped to send about 200 persons to Angola to aid UNITA. He denied they would be mercenaries and said they would be "patriotic black men ... on the side of right for once."

A source close to the OAU said early Wednesday that while Amin, as OAU chairman, cannot himself declare the People's Republic of Angola a member of the OAU he can say it satisfied the requirements for membership in the organization.

The source said the OAU has not had a similar situation before and the charter is vague on the question, but the interpretation of the charter is that when a simple majority of OAU states individually recognize a government it becomes a member of the organization. When talking to reporters said the UNITA-FNLA forces were pulling back to Silva Porto,

after the Addis Ababa summit, would be the procedure.

UNITA's military headquarters 90 miles east of Huambo to fight "rear-guard action." The Johannesburg Star in a dispatch from Lusaka said the forces expected an attack spearheaded by 6,000 Cuban troops.

In London, Prime Minister Harold Wilson said "there is little doubt" that some British marcenaries were executed in Angola by their comrades for refusing to fight the MPLA. But he told the House of Commons there was doubt about the number of deaths until police investigations have been completed.

He said a three-man government commission will investigate the recruitment of more than 200 British mercenaries to fight for the FNLA in Angola. But, he stopped short of announcing any legal steps to stop the recruiting campaign being conducted by an organization calling itself Security Advisory Services.

Ford Regrets Ban On Angola Aid . . . But He Signs $112.3 Billion Defense Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - Expressing deep disappointment at a provision prohibiting military funds for Angola. President Ford on Tuesday signed a compromise $112.3 billion defense appropriation

The measure provides money for defense operations for the 15-month period which ends Sept 30 and is $8.6 billion less than Ford had originally requested

It includes money for further development of the controversial Bi bomber and the acquisition of four airborne warning and control system aircraft

But the most controversial section was the ban on U S mulitary assistance to Angola where rival factions are engaged in a civil war and where a Soviet-backed group appears to be gaining the upper hand

"I am deeply disappointed that the Congress has acted in this bill to deprive the people of Angola of the assistance needed to resist Soviet and Cuban military intervention in their country I believe this provision is an extremely undesirable precedent that could limit severely our ability to play a positive and effective role in international affairs," Ford said

He said he signed the bill, despite reservations, "because of the importance of the programs which are funded by appropriations contained in this bill and the problem which would be caused by a further delay of this legisla-

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield responded that Fords criticism of Congress "won t hold

"They wanted $28 million more By now, very likely, they would have asked for $50 million,' he said

Mansfield told reporters ne felt an aggressive policy in Angola would be counterproductive Asked how the United States could protect its interests there, he responded "What are our interests in Angola?"

The United States, Mansfield said, "does not have unlimited resources We have to be realistic, practical and face up to the fact we cannot exert our influence in all countries on all con-

Later Tuesday, Ford told a briefing session for representatives of 54 national organizations that support a strong defense posture

"I intend to keep our military strength certain and our powder dry His listeners applauded, after which Ford said he also felt it was his responsibility to "do all that I can to reduce the danger (of war) through diplomatic

On a day when Republican challenger Ronald Reagan sharply criticized the administration's handling of foreign and defense policy in a New Hampshire campaign speech, Ford said his national security policy could be summarized as seeking "peace through strength"

Ford said he will ignore a provision which would bar obligation of some money in the bill until it is approved by Senate and House armed services and appropriations committees

'The legislative branch cannot inject itself into executive functions,' said Ford, arguing the provision is unconstitutional He said he would treat that section of the legislation as ' a complete nullity

The ban on Angolan aid first won approval of the Senate by a 54-22 vote in December, and the House agreed, 323 to 99, on Jan 27

Sen Clifford P Case, R-N J, said at the time of the Senate action that the move saved the United States from involving itself in a no-win situation

Some members of Congress feares a repeat of the Vietnam war, and Case said that "our strategic interests are best served by leaving the Russians exposed high and dry as the major force intervening in Africa?

The House move came despite a lastminute plea from Ford to overturn the

Besides Ford, Gen George S Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told a House committee that a victory for the Russian-backed forces would be a Soviet "masterstroke

It would give the Soviets an additional base from which to threaten vital oil tanker lanes to the United States and Western Europe, Brown said

And Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld said victory in Angola would encourage the Russians to increase their efforts elsewhere in Africa

Ford also warned on Tuesday that failure to take a stand would lead allies to doubt America

"I believe that resistance to Soviet expansion by military means must be a fundamental element of U S foreign policy There must be no question in Angola or elsewhere in the world of American resolve in this regard

Both Secretary of State Henry A Kissinger and presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen have said that the administration may still consider asking Congress for open aid to pro-western

SAFE FOR DRYERS

Previous American involvement in Angola was in reaction to earlier Soviet intervention, Kissinger has said. He said the United States began sending equipment there after a massive Soviet arms buildup last March

The $112 3-billion appropriations bill is a compromise between the $111.8 billion aproved by the House and the $112 6 billion agreed to by the Senate. Ford had sought $120 9 billion

It will allow the purchase of items for a production model of the B1 supersonic bomber but with the understanding that this does not constitute a commutment for subsequent funding

A Pentagon decision on whether to make the plane operational is not due until later this year after additional flight tests

The funds for four airborne warning planes represent a compromise between the two approved by the House and the six voted by the Senate

The measure will allow continued operation of sophisticated perimeter acquisition radar at the antiballistic missile installation at Grand Forks, N D The House had voted to scrap this

A Senate provision requiring a fiveyear phaseout of federal subsidies to commissaries on military bases was deleted from the bill, but money was included for the production of nine F15 fighters a month. The Senate had sought to cut monthly production to eight

The bill also restores $70 million of the 75 million the Senate had sought to eliminate from the development of the

Exon Vetoes Interest Hike

Gov. Jim Exon came down hard on higher interest rates Tuesday in explaining his first vetoes of this legislative session. His return of LB177 and LB477 without signature was a commendable act.

LB177 raised interest rate maximums for bank and industrial & investment company personal loans up to $5,000. LB477 increased the maximum interest rate on loans to individuals by small loan companies over $500, increased the loan ceiling from $3,000 to $5,000 and extended the repayment period by three years for loans over $2,000.

Both measures passed the Legislature with plenty of votes to spare. The small loan company bill, LB477, obtained 31 votes, one more than needed to override a veto: LB177 was passed with 29 votes, one less than needed.

Exon said override attempts on both interest rate vetoes would not surprise him and we imagine, considering the Legislature's sensitivity to the desires of the financial industry, that the Legislature will try to enact higher interest rates over the governor's objections.

In vetoing, Exon said the legislation "is so unfair on its face that I am amazed that it was even introduced, let alone passed . . . At a time when wholesale interest rates charged the largest and the most affluent borrowers are being reduced, it is inconceivable that the Legislature should sanction much higher rates for the average borrower.

No, no a thousand times no!" Exon said in a somewhat melodramatic but nevertheless deserved and welcome

In our opinion, higher interest rates on personal loans would only be a drag on the recovery the economy is now undergoing. Further, higher interest rates and extended repayment periods will drive those who can afford it the least farther down into an economic hole from which they will spend a lifetime trying to escape, the high cost of using money having probably doomed them from ever enjoying any kind of economic freedom.

It is a fact of life that those who use large volumes of money but do not need all of it to live are charged less for the use of it than those who use smaller amounts, every cent of which is a necessity.

We can see no good social reason for increasing that gap. And there seem to be no compelling economic reasons for it.

It is hoped that Gov. Exon's rejection of higher interest rates on personal loans will be the final action on the matter.

Who Should Buy The Buses?

The Legislature's Education Committee this week advanced a state aid to education bill to the floor after cutting loose a $21/2 million Omaha school bus encumbrance which had stalled the measure.

But Sen. Gerald Koch of Ralston says he will offer an amendment on the floor which would restore the $21/2 million in state money which Omaha interests want to help pay for buses needed to comply with court-ordered integration directives.

State aid for such a purpose is something the Legislature should approach carefully.

The argument of Omaha Sen. Tom Fitzgerald begs the question. "We're (Omaha senators) soft-hearted guys. We'd bend over backwards to help your areas if they had this problem. We're in a money bind," Fitzgerald said. Being softhearted has nothing to do with it, however, nor does Fitzgerald's promise of Omaha aid if other areas in Nebraska experience integration difficulties.

It is true that most areas of Nebraska other than Omaha have not had to grapple with the very real problem of integrating a large minority population.

It is also true that most areas of Nebraska have not by intent set up a pattern of segregated schools, such as Omaha has. Omaha's conscious efforts over the years to keep schools predominantly black or predominantly white have yielded the mescapable results.

Should the rest of Nebraska now bail out Omaha for following a segregationist policy?

Perhaps the state should — if only for the sake of today's Omaha school children. Perhaps the state should pay at least some part of it.

But the rest of the state and Omaha as well should not lose sight of the reason those buses were ordered.

WASHINGTON - Ronald result would be a "phased transition" to a single, federallyfinanced income floor, developed on the principle of a negative income tax, with work incentives and no discrimination between intact and divided families.

> In support of their plan, the governors excorated the present welfare system - which is financed by the states and some localities as well as the federal government — for state-by-state inequities in benefit levels, encouragement to family disintegration, fraud and bureaucracy, higher costs, gross mefficiency and doing little for the working poor.

> My Favorite Candidate points out that even though this proposal came from four Democrats, it bears much resemblance to the Family phases. The negative income tax. principle has some support among conservative economists. moreover, and reliable sources say that if Ford can survive his primary battle with Reagan, he mught listen to the governors plan with considerable interest He voted twice for the Nixon-Movnihan plan while a member of the House

The governors gave few details in their proposal, telegraphed to Ford last month but aides say they envision a federal program. in which persons or families would be guaranteed a certain menimum income Diminishing federal grants would supplement am additional income the family earned up to a zero print" where there would be no grants but no federal income tax either If the family began earning more than the zero point, it would pay regular taxes on the overage floor would be above present welfare levels, allowing those states to go out of the welfare business. In others, where present benefit levels are higher than the projected floor, the states would have to make up the difference, but would still be able to realize vast savings over

One program of this type tested by the federal government in 1974 would guarantee an income floor of $3,600 and a 'zero point'' of $7,200 for a family of four. A family's earnings above $3,600 would be "taxed" present costs.

- through reduction of federal grants - at 50% until the "zero" noint is reached. Thus a family of four earning $5,000 — "the working poor" - would in fact have an income of $6,100 - its earnings plus a federal grant of $1,100 (the $3,600 floor minus a 50% tax on the earnings).

Such a federal takeover of welfare would, at the start, cost the federal government far more than it now pays for the three programs to be phased out. But the state and many cities and counties would save billions Over the years, the initial federal costs might well be recovered by standardizing the system. eliminating the welfare bureaucracy and reducing the present huge cost of melficiency, fraud and error Administrative overhead for food stamps alone as now about 15% of that program's cost and in New York, for example, the welfare overpayment error rate is runmine at almost 26'

RON HENDREN

WASHINGTON — Well, they said they were going to do it, and they did it. They said they were going to permit that behemoth to come to the United States in the name of international harmony, and that's exactly what Transportation Secretary Bill Coleman called reporters into a jam-packed room, locked the doors - literally - and whispered. Yes, the Corcorde is coming.

Of course, he did it with that carefully polished conservative flair of his, and there were more than 30 pages of meticulously reasoned prose justifying all the reasons why. But the bottom line was 16 months of Concorde flights into Dulles Airport and, if N.Y. authorities can be coerced into going along, into John F. Kennedy Airport as well.

It's supposed to be a sort of trial run, a time in which the airplane's good points and bad will be put to the test. Just how loud is it? Just how much fuel does it really use? Just how many people will pay the price to fly on it, which is about as high as the Concorde's cruising altitude? Just how much hassle will it be to get the thing on the ground once it gets here and is caught up in our holding patterns?

But the fact is, we already know the answers to those questions. The plane will not be any quieter taking off and landing here then it is at London's Heathrow Airport; we know it is bloody loud there. Presumably, Concorde will not require less fuel to navigate over U.S. soil than it does over European soil, and we know it carries barely enough juice to get here, certainly not enough to permit much waiting around to land. So it will have to have first landing rights.

In short, we already have the answers to Mr. Coleman's questions, with the exception of whether the American people will put up with the thing. And the answer to that one, if history teaches much about human nature, is that they will, once it gets here and we grow accustomed to shouting obscenities into the Concorde's din, just as millions of commuters every morning and evening have a physical and verbal go at each other on the nation's freeways. Americans, we know, will put up with a lot.

☆ ☆ ☆ As to maintaining international harmony, Mr. Coleman's report, as carefully reasoned as it was, failed even to mention the real crux of that issue, which is that the British and French knew, or should have known, five years ago that the Concorde would not be a welcome visitor to these shores. That's when - in 1970 - we shot down our own SST and took an enormous loss, and for the very same reasons so many thoughtful people now oppose the Concorde.

Still, the British and French persisted in going ahead against sound advice in their own councils that Concorde was not needed, was not economic, and was a thoroughly bad idea.

Now, we are being asked to pick up the tab. Of course, the courts or Congress may overrule Mr. Coleman. But how much better off we would have been had the transportation secretary used his verbal adroitness, his oh-so-careful reasoning and his solicitious tact to say, simply,

Need For Bicycle Paths

Last month an unfortunate death occurred in East Lincoln on A Street at about 77th when a bicycle and a truck were involved in a collision. As is usual in such cases, the man riding the bicycle was killed. If bicycle paths existed on several main thoroughfares in Lincoln, this kind of accident could have been prevented. There is not much apparent bicycle traffic on city streets, except perhaps around the campus of the University of Nebraska, but the reason may be the hazard of dodging cars. Car drivers are certainly not happy with the situation, either. After traveling through several countries in Europe last year, I was much impressed with the means of dealing with large numbers of twowheeled vehicles. In Holland, bicycle, motorbike and pedestrian paths can be found adjacent to freeways throughout the country. Even in Arctic Finland, bike and pedestrian paths are found throughout the smaller towns and country roads. Congestion can still be found in the busier parts of cities, where there is a general free-for-all in traffic, but the overall system moves traffic very efficiently.

It is true that the United States is a car-oriented society and there may be little apparent need for providing such luxuries. but if bicycle paths existed, I suspect we would see many people using them.

The Hearst Trial

So we have picked a jury for Patricia Hearst, the choice of 36 jurors taking two weeks. By the way, have they freed her kidnappers yet? Now, a few months of a tantalizing trial and the Justice Department can satisfy its salacious appetite on something more appealing to the American public

While some people wonder what is wrong with the youth of today. I wonder what has happened to their forefathers who will sacrifice a kidnapped victim by substituting the Ten Commandments for the benefit of a group of attorneys, and a judge who will receive enough publicity that he may be considered presidential material some day.

It seems to me that Miss Hearst's abductors should be tried first, but I guess the horse no longer goes ahead of the cart, according to the judiciary. PAUL E. LANDRIGAN

Two-House Legislature?

Lincoln, Neb. As a Nebraska citizen as well as a member of Common Cause. I want to express appreciation for The Star's editorial comment on Feb 2 dealing with a legislative committee's reaction to a citizen testifying before it.

I believe The Star exposed the real issue of that episode, which is the too-cozy relationship between the professional lobbyists and the members of the Legislature Clearly, at least for some senators, the testimony of private citizens or volunteer lobbyists is not wanted and is regarded as an interference to be intimidated and harassed. At the same time, few if any questions or challenges are offered to the full-time professionals. They are obviously part of the legislature "club"

At least one observer of the situation has suggested that we have, in fact, a bicameral legislature, with the professional lobbyists functioning as the upper house. That may be a little strong, but the proposed Sunshine Initiative is directed at preventing the actual and potential misuses which can occur when many ex-legislators are lobbyists, many ex-lobbyists are legislators and too many legislators are anticipating future careers as lobbyists. What role they are playing or to whom they owe accountability at any one time is not always clear, at least to the public

In addition however Common Cause also recognizes that one of the factors in the present confusion is the abysmally low salaries of the legislators. We have been pledged for over a year to support any workable legislation for substantial senatorial pay raises and are publicly lobbying for such action LARRY DOERR

Cock-Fighting, Wild Pigeons

Lincoln, Neb Murder is what I call cock-fighting and training dogs with in the minds of the people who own and fight them, and that is to see them slashed and gutted to the death in what they choose to call a sport. Few winners survive. The one that is still able to stand on its own two feet is declared the winner. Sharp razorlike spurs are attached to the spurs of the chickens and they are turned loose on one another. It is their natural instinct to want to fight. This is not sport, in my mind or in the eyes of God, and should be outlawed.

It was stated in the paper the other day that wild pigeons are considered garbage so the hunting-dog people are allowed to trap these birds and use them to train their dogs while alive. The dogs are trained to point and retrieve these pigeons and maul them around in their mouths, bringing them back to the trainer. After so many times, the birds are wet, scared and multilated, so another bird is used to continue the training. I know a trainer in the Fremont area who uses live pigeons.

and here is how he does it. He has a loft of racing homing pigeons, and makes a dummy pheasant for the retrieving bird. The racing homer is placed in the weeds for the pointing, head under wing. The dog points, the trainer shoots the gun to train the dog not to be gun-shy and at the same time throws the dummy pheasant into the air. The dog retrieves the dummy and the live bird returns to the loft and can be used again and again.

If the city wants to get the number of wild pigeons reduced n Lincoln, they should trap them and dispose of them as they do other animals at the Humane Society, not in the mouths of dogs.

Do Or Be Done In

Lincoln, Neb.

It's dog eat dog, or so the psychologists say. Don't play it straight - you'll always lose that way. Play it cool - get your fellow man. Forget the Golden Rule - win any way you can.

I am teaching this poem to my children so they can do things to make me proud of them. They'll make a name for themselves, like Jessie James and Billy the Kid, and maybe I'll even get a mass murderer out of the lot.

But if things are not changed within our school system, I probably will, anyway. I've trusted these people to teach my children and tried to do the best I can, only to have a teacher abuse my child. I took it to the principal. He did not see a thing. even watching it. He lied and told me my family needed counseling.

It's abuse or be abused by both students and teachers. So, alright. America - here come the future Nixons, Oswalds, Starkweathers, etc. Be careful how you vote on the gun law you may need them.

Lincoln, Neb. Papa had itchy feet, as the saying goes. Our longest move was from Nebraska to Tennessee to Washington. As a youngster. moving from the prairie to the fascinating Rocky Mountains, it left still bright memories

On the barely moving train, the conductor called out special points of interest. A thin trickle of water, the Colorado River had taken seven million years to become the raging torrent of today through the Grand Canyon.

The pinkish rock formations tike guant cathedrals beld breathless beauty Farther along the Mount of the Holy Cross las, ever snow-filled. There was the barren land, where far below the tracks, a lonely cabin stood. A lonely path led to it, coming from somewhere, going past, into nowhere. Above on a rocky slope, a twisted tree, stripped even of its bank, stood as if in defiance of the elements that had tried to destroy it

We were told that the grave of Mrs. Helen Hunt Jackson was up there beneath the evergreens, and I thought, what a ionely place. But I imagine she walks there, listening to the singing of the birds and the whaspering of the trees Not long ago I made this same trip over the mountains on Major recommendations would create a permanent telligence agencies provide no watchdog House intelligence covert aid to American committee and require newsmen, clergymen or presidents to report every covert operation to it within 48 hours.

They also would outlaw covert U.S. aid to foreign fighting forces such as those in Angola except in time of war and also outlaw assassination attempts.

Just before final approval by a 9 to 4 vote Tuesday, the committee rejected a recommendation to split the Central Intelligence Agency in two, creating one agency to gather and analyze intelligence and a second to conduct espionage and covert operations.

The committee also recommended abolition of the the FBI's Internal Security branch and limits on the use of newsmen, clergymen and educators in intelligence operations.

release of the committee's separate report because it contains details on secret U.S. covert operations, and House leaders still have not decided what to do with the report itself. The House committee officially goes out of business Wednesday, and the Senate Intelligence Committee is scheduled to issue its report March 15.

Although the committee favored a permanent House Intelligence Committee, Republican Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona and William S. Cohen, R-Maine, introduced a bill to create a joint House-Senate Intelligence Committee. They said it would curb leaks by replacing eight different House and Senate committees now getting secret information.

Congress has made a mess of its intelligence investigations today," Rhodes and Cohen said in a statement.

The recommendation to abolish the FBI's Internal Security Branch was approved by voice vote after the staff testified that the agency was the one involved in domestic spying

A staff memo said the Internal Security Branch spied on a 16year-old school girl who wrote to the Socialist Workers Party for a class paper, and that it also "authorized the infamous Cointelpro activities.

The committee would limit the FBI to criminal investigations - of terrorist bombs, for example - rather than general surveillance of suspect domestic groups.

The committee also approved a recommendation that U.S. intelligence agencies not publish books or plant or suppress stories of American news media.

It recommended that the ineducational institutions or use them for cover to agents

Rep. Robert H. Giairno, D-Conn., added a specification that the recommendation is only against intelligence use of American reporters and does not interfere with U.S. intelligence use of foreign press.

The recommendation was proposed by Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., who said U.S. newsmen, clergymen and educators "must be protected from corruption" by intelligence Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, said Tuesday the CIA is balking at giving the committee names of U.S. news organizations and The House has blocked public reporters who have worked with the agency in the past.

Major recommendations the committee approved in preliminary form last week

-Create a 9- to 13-member permanent House intelligence committee to keep track of the Intelligence agencies' most secret operations, approve their budgets and legislate controls.

-Ontlaw covert U.S. aid for foreign troops such as those in Angola and Laos and outlaw assassination attempts except in

-Require a president to report any covert operation to the House committee within 48 hours, much as military operations now must be reported to Congress under its War Powers Act.

-Give all 435 House members access to the committee's secret information but subject any who leak it to House censure or

-Fire any staff member who leaks secret information and make him liable for criminal prosecution.

-Require public disclosure of each intelligence agency's cost every year in the President's budget and subject the agencies to full General Accounting Of-

-Abolish the 5,000-employe Defense Intelligence Agency and divide any necessary functions between the CIA and the secretary of defense's office. -Split the National Security groups preparing to plant Agency away from the military and redirect its communications onitoring to gather political and economic intelligence for committee U.S. foreign policy decisions.

The 239-154 vote was 23 less than would be needed to exact the measure over a veto by President Ford. Before going to the White House, intreover, the bill would have to be approved by the Senate.

However, House Democratic Leader Thomas O'Neill Jr. of Massachusetts said the House action "is our answer to the President's complacency."

He said legislation passed within two weeks "will mean nearly one million new jobs" and predicted, "Next week we will override the promised veto of the public works bill."

Anguilla Joyfully Returns To Empire

The Valley Anguilla (UPI) --The sun came back up on a small part of the British Empire Tuesday

While most populations «truggle for independence from colonialist and imperialist powers, the tiny island of they came from Anguilla Tuesday joyfully returned to the fold of the British Empire

Although other Caribbean nations have chosen independence - Jamaica, Barbados, Bahamas and Trinidad-Tobago — the 35-square-mile island, which Britain once invaded with a force of bobbies, chose to remain a colony and declared Tuesday Freedom Day

Seven years ago 300 British paratroopers rushed to the island after Prime Minister Harold Wilson heard reports that it was being taken over by hoodlums and thugs

What the soldiers found was an island that wanted to remain a colony rather than join a neighboring island federation of St Kitts-Nevis

Tuesday Anguilla's colonial status became official with a effect that puts the colony under empire

the wing of a reluctant Britain The 6 000 islanders first showed their anger at moves to force them into the St Kitts-Nevis federation in 1967 when they put 17 policemen on a boat and sent them back to St Kitts where

Wilson sent in troops when the crisis came to a boil in 1969, but not a shot was fired and the soldiers spent most of their time taking sun on the beaches and playing soccer and cricket with the local population.

The comic-opera invasion was an international embarrassment for Britain, which finally yielded to the demands of Anguillan leader Ronald Webster to make the island a colony independent of the St Kitts-Nevis federation Webster plans to dissolve his government Wednesday in preparation for elections in

After the 1969 invasion, Britain replaced its paratroopers with engineers who built the islands' first paved roads, its first telephone service, radio station, and first electricity service

That only made the Anguillans new constitution going into even more anxious to stay in the

Gunmen Slay Man Mistaken For Mayor

Madrid Spain (UPI) --Suspected Basque separatist gummen Tuesday shot and killed a man they apparently mistook for the mayor in the second political slaying in two days in the restive northern region of Spain

In other parts of the country there were more strikes and street protests in support of pay increases and political freedoms

In the Mediterranean town of Tarragona, police fired teargas grenades and rubber bullets to disperse demonstrating strikers

A strike completely paralyzed the historic town of Aranjuez, 30 m.les south of Madrid All industrial workers and all students of the town of 32,000 staved at home in a show of solidarity with the workers of the Lever Iberica chemical plant

The workers locked themselves into a church and started a hunger strike after the company had locked them out for going on strike in a pay dispute Strikes are still virtually illegal under Spanish law

News agency reports identified the man slain by suspected separatists in the mountain town of Cizurquil near San Sebastian as Julian Galarza, 37 They said the gunmen apparently mistook him for the town's mayor because of their physical

On Monday, separatists killed the mayor of the Basque town of Galdacano and injured his police bodyguard Basque Homeland and Liberty, the separatist underground group. Tuesday claimed responsibility for the mayor's slaying

The Basque region has been a center of separatist and anngovernment activity since the late Generalissimo Francisco Franco stripped the four Basque provinces of the limited autonomous status they held under the Republican regime

The government of King Juan Carlos has officially recognized the Basque language and set up a commission to examine the granting of some rights of selfadministration to the region But many Basques think the government is moving too slowly

Che New York Simes

Tokyo - The Lockheed Aircraft Corp has lost a $1 3 billion order for new airplanes here because of its involvement in a payoff scandal, Japanese government officials said Tuesday Japan's defense agency, they said, tentatively planned to buy about 100 of Lockheed's P-3C Orion antisubmarine aircraft, worth $13 million each, but has now changed its plans

As a result, the officials said, the antisubmarine-warfare buildup urged on Japan by the United States has been set back a year or more

The Lockheed revelations have also jeopardized $1 billion to $2 billion in sales to Japan by other American aircraft manufacturers, they indicated

The officials also said the tarnished image of American airJapanese arms producers to renew demands that their Japan government order more from them and allow them to export to the world arms market Lockheed executives have admitted in Washington that the company paid a total of $126 million to a shadowy man behind the scenes, to a leading trading concern and to a mysterious Hong Kong publicity

The Lockheed executives have Tanaka and Nobusuke Kishi, tion both still members of parliament - have been implicated

Ford Hits Payment Of Bribes

Washington (UPJ) - President Ford Tuesday condemned the payment of bribes by U.S. firms overseas and began a review of ways to punish them possibly including the loss of federal contracts

Press secretary Ron Nessen said Ford called in top advisers to discuss the bribery situation following disclosures that Lockheed Aircraft Corp and many other firms have paid millions to foreign lobyists and government officials to boost overseas sales

At the same time Treasury Secretary William Simon announced the Internal Revenue Service is stepping up a drive to uncover tax evasion through the improper deduction of bribes and similar wrongful payments by the firms involved

On Capitol Hill Sen Frank Church, D Idaho chairman of the subcommittee which disclosed many of Lockheed s foreign pavoffs last week called for an international conference on commercial bribery

Nessen said The President does not condone any illegal activity by American business or industrial firms abroad. In fact the President condemns in the strongest terms any such action

Nessen agreed with a reporter that one possible action would be for the federal government to deny contracts to corporations found to be engaging in overseas

Therefore the officials said

Greenspan: The Best Still To Come

WASHINGTONN (AP) Chairman Alan Greenspan of the President's Council of Economic Advisers said Tuesday that the nation's economy is in the early stages of what appears to be a solid and sustained recovery from recession.

The best is still to come, he indicated. He said unemployment could be better this year than was thought, and interest rates for home mortgages may decline if there is continued progress in restraining inflation.

The potential for having a recovery that will last quite a long time is there." Greenspan said at a breakfast meeting with reporters. He said he would characterize the economy as now being in "the moderate early stages of recovery.

Greenspan said it is premature to say that unemployment will be better in 1976 than the Ford Administration has been predicting, even though the January drop in the unemployment rate to 7.8 per cent was better than expected

He said the January statistics may have under-stated unemployment a little bit. But he indicated that if February's jobless report confirms the gains reported for January, then the 1975 job forecasts may be changed.

The Ford Administration is predicting unemployment will fall to between 7 and 7.5 per cent by the end of the year, down from 8.3 per cent at the end of Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, meanwhile, said in a brief interview he believes the unemployment rate will be closer to 7 per cent than to 7.5 per cent by the end of this year.

Greenspan said the only development that could upset the favorable outlook for the economy would be a new outburst of inflation, and he added there is nothing to indicate this is about to happen.

"Excluding that (the danger of inflation), this looks to me like a very solid recovery," he said.

Still to come. Greenspan said, are a pickup in housing construction during the second half of this year, a rebuilding of business inventories and an increase in business investment.

He said the high mortgage interest rates of the past will "probably move lower if inflation stays reasonably subdued."

Greenspan indicated the administration is proceeding cautiously to revitalize the economy because the cost of doing too much could be a new round of inflation that would be "potentially horrendous."

The cost of doing too little, on the other hand, would be a slightly slower recovery which would not pose such a serious threat to the long-term health of the economy, he said.

Agreement Said Reached At Price Mill

Grand Falls, Nfld. (AP) - The Canadian Paperworkers Union said Tuesday it has reached agreement on a new labor contract with Price-Newfoundland Pulp & Paper, Ltd., covering 620 workers at Price's 800 ton-a-day newsprint mill here.

Terms of the agreement weren't disclosed, but they are understood to parallel contracts reached earlier between the (PU and other eastern Canada pulp and paper producers.

Voting on the contract is expected to take place sometime this week. The mill has been idle since mid-November.

Price-Newfoundland is owned by Price Co. of Quebec City. which is controlled by Abiubi Paper Co. of Toronto.

Domtar, Ltd., To Hike Price Of Newsprint

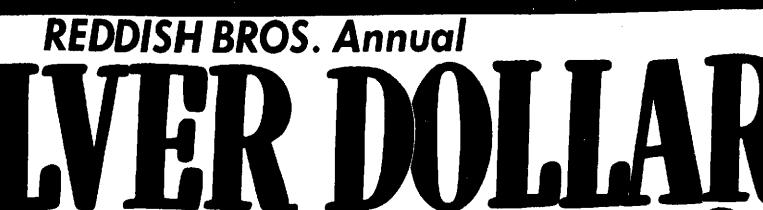

Montreal (AP) - Domtar. Ltd., said Tuesday it is raising the price in the United States and Canada of all grades of newsprint it produces by $25 a ton, effective March 1

The new price for 30-pound newsprint, the most common grade, will be $285 a ton in the United States and $271 in Canada

The boost is similar to increases announced recently by several other Canadian producers meeting begins at 7 p.m. at the LES building at 14th and O Sts.

One outcome of the meeting, LES officials hope, is the creation of a citizens advisory group to act as a liaison between the community and

Last Friday an LES Administrative Board committee briefed the City Council and mayor on the rate study.

LES is eyeing five different ways to charge for the use of electricity, ranging from the existing cost of service approach to an inverted rate structure. Under an inverted structure, the price of electricity would go up as consumption

Criticism Rising

Apparently the LES board decided to form the committee in an attempt to avert mounting criticism of the municipal utility.

Some people have blasted LES for its recent rate hike, others have opposed LES's plans to become part-owner in a nuclear power plant, while some have criticized LES's long range

LES is considering selling an estimated $363 million in electric revenue bonds over the next

The money would be used to improve and expand the electric system, plus help improve LES's financial position on the bond market, LES officials say. A lower interest rate is significant because a 1% lower rate could mean millions of dollars in savings on interest payments.

Lack Of Information?

Some members of the Concerned Citizens group charge that LES won't say how long it will take to pay off the bonds or how high the interest rate will he

For instance, if the $363 million in bonds were borrowed for a 40-year period at an annual 8% interest rate, the total interest payments would be $854 million.

As a result, the criticis charge, Lincolnites actually would be paying aroung $1.2 billion, not just $363 million.

LES board members have pointed out that the bonds may be floated on a 30-year basis instead of over 40 years and that the interest rate probably would be in the 7 to 74% range, not 8%. That means, they say, a lot less money. Top Financial Rating

One sure way to be assured of a lower interest rate, LES maintains, is to make sure the utility's financial package is in good shape.

LES board members have repeatedly stressed the importance of maintaining an excellent bond rating and told the City Council last December that any reluctance on the council's part to increase rates would jeopardize that

The rate hikes are needed to generate sufficient revenues to assure cautious bond buyers

The rates which went into effect in January boosting the average residential user's electricity bill by 24.7% will help do that job, LES says. About half the revenues generated by that rate increase will go to improve LES's financial position. The remaining portion of the rate increase will help cover the cost of the increased cost of wholesale power. Last August, rates also were increased an average of 9.3% for the residential customers. 6% A Year

Every year for the next ten years rates will have to be boosted about 6% to maintain Lincoln's financial program.

The LES board's policy has been to join other utilities in building power plants, instead of simply buying electricity from suppliers.

Some citizens think there's a better way. Instead of becoming owners in various generating plants, some people suggest that LES could use a "pay as you go" approach. They claim that the utility's plan is too expensive and needs

Part Owner

For instance, they point out that Lincoln will become a 13% owner in the Laramie River generating complex in Wyoming for some $183 million. LES also wanted to become a 13% owner in the Ft. Calhoun No. 2 nuclear power plant near Omaha at an estimated cost of $142 million. The City Council and mayor vetoed that nuclear plant

LES board members respond that a "pay as you go" approach would end up costing Lincolnites more money through higher electric bills.

The board has asserted that it costs more to buy power from other suppliers, such as the Nebraska Public Power District, because NPPD not only would charge LES the cost of supplying the power, but would tack on an additional charge to make a profit.

Shrug Shoulders When queried by City Council members why NPPD, as a public utility, would charge a marked-up price, LES board members just shrugged their shoulders.

That's the way they do it," one person

LES and NPPD have been and still are embroiled in various controversies, including rates. In reviewing the various ways to charge for electricity, LES personnel will be keeping one eye on how the rates would affect customers' bills and the other eye peeled on the amount of revenue those rates would produce.

Some of the newly formed citizen groups say that's exactly what they're watching out for, too.

David and Angie Boyter of Ellicott City, Md., survey their income tax forms for 1975. The couple was divorced Dec. 8 in Haiti, ending a nine-year marriage. They got married again in January, but now they are contemplating a second divorce, this time not for lack of love but lack of money. They got a divorce last year to avoid paying $1,300 more in income tax. The Boyters say federal income tax law favors single people, and if they have to, they'll split up again to avoid paying more tax for 1976.

That was the message Tuesday from three female Lincoln police officers at a panel discussion at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

"We have the same training, the same expectations, the same everything," said Linda Steinman, who divides her responsibilities between internal affairs investigation and criminal follow-up work.

Steinman noted that just a few years ago women who were hired as police officers were immediately put to work as plainsclothes detectives, skipping uniform "street duty" entirely

Although the quick step into plainclothes ranks has vanished for women, the opportunity for more women to enter law enforcement has appeared with the waning of discrimination on the basis of sex, the officers said. Shelley Zalman, a second pan-

Pakistani Yarn Can Be Lethal

sumer Product Safety Commission responding to the death from anthrax of a California weaver, has issued its second warning about animal wool yarn imported from Pakistan

The commission said about 15 000 pounds of the yarn that may be contaminated by anthrax germ spores have been distributed nationwide through retail stores and mail order out-

The most recent warning was about skeins of varn imported by Creative Handweavers Inc. of Los Angeles No labels were on the skeins the commission said Commission officials said they learned about the latest contaminated varn following the death from anthrax late last month of the 31-year-old weaver in Morro Bay, Calif Some of the varn imported by Creative

Washington (UPI) - The Con- Handweavers was found in the victim's home, the officials said The victim was not identified

Last Friday, the commission issued a warning about labeled yarn imported by Tahki Imports Ltd of Teaneck, NJ, and said anthrax could be fatal to humans if left untreated

It said persons having yarn they believe may be contaiminated should place it in airtight double plastic bags and contact local health authorities for disposal The contaminated yarn contained camel's hair and white, gray and black goat's hair in varing proportions

Anthrax, primarily an animal disease, is transmutted primarily through skin contact with an infected product Early symptoms are blisters which can develop into an area of dead skin with a dark crust.

The commission said persons who believe they may possess some of the contaminated yarn may get additional information by calling a toll-free telephone number, 800-638-2666

FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

First aid for broken bones should not extend beyond prevention of further injuries. reports the Nebraska Medical Association.

There are two types of breaks or fractures. When the bone is broken, but the skin has not been punctured, the break is called a closed fracture. Dislocations are treated as closed fractures.

When the bone and the skin are broken, the fracture is called open or compound

Fracture should be suspected if the limb does not have a normal appearance or function. Do not move an injured person until the suspected fracture has been splinted, unless the victim is in imminent danger.

For a closed fracture, place the limb in as natural a position as possible, without causing discomfort to the victim and apply splints

For an open fracture, apply a pressure dressing to control bleeding. Then, apply splints without trying to straighten the limb or returning it to a natural Splints must be long enough to extend well beyond the joints above and below the fracture. Any firm material can be used such as boards, poles, thick magazines or newspapers.

The temporary Lincoln Alliance was born out of the idea that with numbers comes some measure of

It is a group of groups in its infan-cy, conceived during a three-day workshop in April 1974, nurtured by more than $30,000 raised over the past year, and supported by a list of local organizations numbering 26 and growing.

'Many individuals, even single groups, feel powerless to do anything about the problems that affect them," said Carole Siegman, who has worked with the alliance idea from its conception.

At the monthly meetings, the individuals, representing a broad spectrum of local organizations, introduce themselves one by one.

There are the young, jean-clad college folk, the middle-aged doers in a host of churches, young mothers from various PTA groups, feminists, union members and the leaders of many neighborhood groups.

The alliance's purpose is not just to be heard but listened to, not merely to make noise, but to help make policy.

We perceive it as an organization of people who want to get some daily lives. We want to help make the decisions," explained the president of the temporary organization, Ery Goldenstein.

The temporarly alliance will identify issues and arrange for a permanent organization, Goldenstein explained.

Already the group has selected three issues to work on:

-Lincoln Electric System (the alliance was unsuccessful in a late December attempt to get LES rate hikes delayed one month so that the rate system could be better explained to the public).

-School speed zones (the alliance is working with city government to get lower speed zones established around Lincoln schools). -Street widenings (the alliance appeared at a City Council hearing Tuesday night opposing widening at 48th and Leighton St.).

The organization does not wander off in any direction but has a set of criteria for issues. "The issue has to be defined narrowly; it must be one which can be handled in a relatively short period of time; it must have citywide implications and it must be winable," explained Goldenstein.

For example the intersection widening at 48th and Leighton Sts. deals with neighborhood preservation, an issue of city-wide importance. Siegman explained.

The temporary alliance is just a way station, springing from the initial money-raising group called IMPACT, and paving its own way to a permanent Lincoln Alliance. This is how it all began:

Individual citizens involved in church, neighborhood and civic groups began discussing the frustration of dealing with isolated solutions was needed. Forty people attended a three-day workshop conducted by a staff member of the Chicago-based Industrial Areas Foundation Training Institute, founded by Saul Alinsky, an early ploneer in the citizen participation movement. From this workshop grew the in-dinated, city-wide approach to itial organization, IMPACT. Primarily through individual church donations and denominational grants, IMPACT raised $32,000 to fund a city-wide organization of organizations.

And in June the group hired Mark Lindner, an organizer trained by the Industrial Areas Foundation.

The temporary alliance was formed in late November with Goldenstein elected president and Delores Lintel temporary secretary. The group has office space at Trinity United Methodist Church.

Since then at least 26 local groups have joined with the alliance, with more expected to ally in the coming months At a constitutional convention in late spring, member organizations will hammer out the rules for a permanent alliance

Part of the whole process, from the workshop through the perma-

the group hopes to be a mass of welltrained, well-versed leaders, able to operate without staff.

The list of organizations which have joined the temporary alliance in the first two months includes First United Methodist Church, Lutheran Metro Parish, Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, Methodist City Union, Unitarian Church, American Lutheran Church, Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Society of Friends.

Jeeps! Why am I here? Why did I say I would bowl on this team? I knew they'd ask me. I heard them ask everyone else in the office. The snobs!! I had it all rehearsed what I was going to Bowl? Me? I'd say. Look, why should I help you out just because you're one short on your team? You didn't ask me when you started so now that Helen is pregnant and can't bowl you're asking me. What are you doing? Scraping the bottom of the barrel? And I'd say, I'll bet after she gets back to work you'll want ber again and make some excuse to drop me. I'll bet you didn't know I average 153. What do you think of that? See what you've missed all this time? Bowl with you? No, sirée. Find some other sucker. That's what I'd say.

So what do I do when Bertha comes to the desk yesterday and asks me if I'll bowl with the team? I smile at her and say Bowl? Me? Why, what a surprise! I'd love to.

Tough luck, Marian, but nine isn't bad for a start.

Nine - I'd drop dead with an open box on the first frame.

And here's our glamorous Stella. I thought her skirts were tight but with those stretch pants and that jersey it leaves nothing to the imagination and nothing to be desired either. I'm glad I'm not built like that. She may wiggle in the office but she quivers here. I wonder if I hummed "A Pretty Girl is Like a Melody" she'd start stripping and dance down the bowling alley thinking it was a runway. The ball could remind her of the bald heads in the front row. She makes a production of just rolling a bowling ball. Okay, girlie, all the fellows are watching now. Go into your act. What a slow ball. She's going to keep the attention as long as she can. I wish I'd brought my book I could have finished it before that ball gets the length of the lane A strike! Ye Gods! Now I've seen everything.

That was marvelous, Stell. I wish I could look as well as you do bowling.

Look at her smirk. Make the most of it, baby That is probably your first and last for the evening.

Old Clothes Never Die, Don't Even Fade Away

Trying on clothes in Joanie Golter's boutique near 27th and Vine Sts. is like playing dressup in your grandmother's attic.

Joanie doesn't worry about being in style. Every garment she sells at The Sampler is at least 25 years outdated.

Her customers can dance the Charleston in a genuine "Flapper" dress from the 1920s or "do the town" in a "new" squirrel cape and ostrich feature

Through the front window, you can see Joanie's shop is like no other in town. "It's me," she

At the door, her Shih Tzu named Baron greets every visitor. The long-haired toy dog, with a bow in front to hold the fringe back, scurries around playfully like a dust mop with Dresses and capes and hats dangle from the ceiling - that's to cover up the peeling paint. Joanie explains.

"I lose things in here," she says. "I forget where I hung something and have to stand back and stare at the ceiling awhile before I find it."

"It's funny," she says, "some people come in and you can tell by their expressions they think the place is really great. It doesn't matter what age; they stay for hours.

"Others take one look and turn around and go back out the door.

Joanie insists she "stumbled into" the antique clothes business.

"I was at an auction and noticed a lot of boxes not being sold." A few minutes later, she bought the contents of the entire attic, sight unseen.

Rummaging through the boxes she discovered a bonanza of hats, furs, dresses and coats from the 1940s era and before plus some Rockwell and Gibson prints and old valentines.

Shortly thereafter, her realtorhusband Mike "decided to move me from a six-bedroom house to a three-bedroom house," she

Three rooms full of antique furniture had to go.

So with the combination of old furniture and clothing to sell, Joanie rented the store and opened for business last June.

The building owner offered to lower the ceiling and install paneling. Joanie said, "No, thanks, just buy me some paint." The atmosphere was perfect.

Now she buys her stock from people who are cleaning attics or garages. Once in awhile she rummages through the local thrift shops "but they usually throw things away if they're too old fashioned.

Pre-1950s clothing "really is hard to find," she says. She's not sure if it's not available or if people don't know she's in business

She recalls broken-beartedly that a few weeks ago she saw some men tearing down an old house — it was full of old clothes. "I bought a few outfits but most were taken to the dump," she says.

Joanie specializes in antique garments because "they had a lot of style. Many of the things they wore in the '40s you can wear today."

Her prices are relatively reasonable. The everyday "house dresses" are marked at 50 cents apiece. Most expensive item is a black velvet, furtrimmed coat priced at $120. Her oldest piece is probably the stark black outfit on the mannequin in the window. It appears to be from the late 1800s.

College students especially love to stop in and "dress up," at The Sampler, says Joanie One coed bought a fussy, lace wedding dress - "she said she wasn't planning on being married right away ... but someday . . .

A lot of young women are interested in the "flapper" dresses. The only problem is, since they are slit up the sides, "none of us knows what to wear under them."

THE SAMPLER ... every garment is at least 25 years out of style.

repeatedly tell women to stay out of their husbands' billfolds and drawers?

dear

Why should a married mar have something in his billfold and drawers that his wife shouldn't be able to see? Are you saying that if a man is carrying on a secret love affair with another woman, it's none of his wife's business?

Oftentimes, a wife discovers that her husband is committing adultery when she finds the evidence hidden in his billfold or drawer. Then, at least she has the choice of bringing the man to his senses through proper care and treatment or holding onto the evidence in case she decides to divorce him. Thank you.

BEEN ON BOTH SIDES DEAR BEEN: Sorry, but I can't condone invasion of privacy for any reason.

P.S. If women campry, why can't men also? Such sucoping is dirty business.

this for a switch?

My wife and I are chronic insomniacs. When we do fall asleep, we occasionally snore. Whenever I hear her snoring, it's like hearing heavenly chimes because I know that she has finally been able to fall asleep.

That, in turn, makes me feel so mellow and relaxed that I soon doze off, too.

My wife tells me that she is not bothered by my snoring for the same reason.

On June 17, 1975, I ordered six Bicentennial 24K-gold electroplated dollars from the United States Coin Co. in Charlotte, N.C. I received a confirmation of this order which suggested I order additional sets containing six half-dollars and six quarters. I ordered these July 15. My two checks for $22 and $20 were cashed, but I never received either order. Please help me.

-Mrs. A.M.S., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: The coin company couldn't be contacted at the address you provided, but the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce gave us some information about your problem. The company apparently used the money it received from orders to contract with a mint to produce the coins. The mint still hasn't manufactured the coins or returned the money to United States Coin Co., so it claims it is unable to offer you a cash refund. No date has been set for production of the coins. The chamber spokesman said that to get more information about your order, write to Charlotte Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 187. Charlotte, N.C. 28233.

ACTION LINE: According to newspaper reports at the time the City Council granted a liquor license for the new restaurant and lounge, it is to be located across the street from the present Misty Lounge at 6232 Havelock.

I would like to know if the North American School of Animal Sciences in Newport Beach, Calif., is or is not a legitimate animal school. I'm planning to send for a home study course to be a veterinarian assistant but it will cost me $589. That's a lot of money if this school is a ripoff. Can you check it out for me?

—Kate Lewis, Fullerton

ACTION LINE: There's no information available to indicate the school isn't legitimate, according to the Lincoln Better Business Bureau. Information supplied through the Los Angeles Better Business Bureau indicates that North American School of Veterinary Science, 4500 Campus Drive, University Plaza, Newport Beach, Calif. 92663, is a subsidiary of National Systems, Inc. National is a public company whose stock is traded on the American Stock Exchange and owns several other correspondence schools. North American was founded in 1954 to train veterinarian's assistants, humane society personnel, pet shop workers and breeding kennel owners. There are no unresolved complaints or any other derogatory information in the Los Angeles bureau's files about the school.

I have a bunch of old to almost-current magazines to get rid of. Does anybody take magazines for recycling or for any other purposes? I hate to take them to the dump.

—B.S. Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Depending on the age of the magazines, there are several places in the area that welcome readable material. Magazines not over a year old are used by the Lincoln Regional Center, Van Dorn and Folsom Sts. The Nebraska Penal Complex also welcomes magazines. Reading material can be taken to the front entrance there. Lincoln General Hospital, 2300 So. 16th, uses magazines for its patients. These can be taken to the volunteers office.

My husband returned some boat seats to Starbuck Custom Boats of Denver more than 18 months ago, when he was promised a refund exceeding $100. -Mrs. William Wolfram, Seward ACTION LINE: Jim Starbuck, president of the company, says you apparently were mistaken about any promise of a refund. He said the company has only a rear seat and some side panels from your boat, rather than a complete set of seats. You are welcome to send for those items at your expense, he said. If you want more information, write to him at Starbuck Manufacturing Co., 4893 No. Washington. Denver, Colo. 80216. If the problem isn't resolved to your satisfaction, the next step you can take would be to contact the Lincoln Better Business Bureau or the consumer fraud division of the Nebraska attorney general's office or both.

ACTION TIP: If you've gotten a case of spring fever from Nebraska's unusually warm winter, one remedy is to start planning for planting spring flower gardens. The U.S. Department of Agriculture has published a new booklet on flowering perennials that tells how, when, where and what to plant and gives advice on watering, mulching, fertilizing and cultivation. For your copy of "Growing Flowering Perennials" send 50e to Consumer Information Center, Dept. 90, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

The forms look official, complete with an address where the dividends are purportedly said to be available for the asking.

The VA explains to each caller and letter writer that dividends are payable only on policies that are kept in force.

VA officials say the rumor may have its roots in a special dividend paid in 1950 and 1951. All payments on that program were ended in 1970 by a congressional act

Another theory is that the rumor is fueled by the VA's annual announcement of dividends for holders of current insurance policies for World War I World War II and Korea veterans

The VA amounced the 1976 dividends last month for those

Candidates Likely To Appear On Ballots

Secretary of State Allen J. Beermann Wednesday is expected to name 11 Democrats and two Republicans as presidential candidates for the May 11 primary election.

State law gives Beermann the duty of selecting the presidential contenders based on his reading of the national news media.

On the Democrats' side, it is believed Beermann will name:

Norfolk Man Files For Seat In 21st District

By The Associated Press A Norfolk agri-business man has filed as a candidate for the 21st legislative district seat now held by state Sen. Tom Kennedy of Newman Grove.

J. Paul McIntosh says he is seeking the post "because I feel that the broad background that I have would enable me to do the job and to see that the people of this district are well represented.

Kennedy has not announced whether he will seek re-election. He said he would "probably make an announcement sometime this week. McIntosh owns a fertilizer and chemical business and is involved in extensive farming operations He has served on the local school board and has taught at the elementary and university levels "I think that Sen. Kennedy has erved the district well, although I have not always agreed with ham," McIntosh said. McIntosh noted that Kennedy has yet to announce if he would seek another term and said, "I would hope that Sen. Kennedy could support me if be chooses not to run

Missing from the list are Idaho Frank Church, Massachusetts Sen. Edward

Kennedy and former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford. Kennedy has asked that his name be removed from consideration, while Sanford recently bowed out of the 1976 presidential race. Bentsen Tuesday announced that he has abandoned his national campaign effort and will confine his efforts to getting the Texas delegation pledged to him on a favorite son basis. It is not known whether Beermann will keep Bentson on the ballot in light of this announcement.

Beermann may change his mind about not including Church by the time he holds a press conference to announce the presidential primary candidates at 10.30 a.m. Wednesday.

Church is expected to make his first big primary push in the Nebraska primary.

On the Republican side. Beermann's job was considerably easter. He will place President Gerald Ford's and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan's names on the ballot.

Kralik Files For Cavanaugh Seat in Unicam

Omaha (AP) - Robert K. Kralik, an auto body painter, filed Monday for the 9th District seat in the Legislature.

Krahk, 44, said he decided to enter his first political race because he is "fed up with the crame situation.

"I don't want judges to have so much discrimination in the death penalty." he said. He said. there should be a mandatory death penalty for anyone convicted of first-degree murder or of murder in the commission of another crime, such as robbery.

The 9th Distract seat is held by Sen John Cavanaugh, who seeks the Democratic nomination to Congress Others who have filed for Cavanaugh's legislative seat are Sam J Howell III and Patricia Shafer.

Water Controls Sensitive Issue

Outstate Nebraska Bureau

York - The irrigators who filled the York County 4-H Building Tuesday agreed unanimously in a straw vote that they want groundwater conserved.

But the approximately 200 in attendance left no doubt that a lot of water must flow under the bridge before the methods of conserving that precious resource are

During the groundwater and irrigation clinic sponsored by the York County Groundwater Conservation District, the question of groundwater allocation proved to be a sensitive and emotional issue.

"There are certain ones very much in favor of allocation and some who oppose it without knowing or understanding the reasons for it. Others are opposed to any regulation of the private rights they have, District Chairman Carl Epp said.

Meters Hottest Issue

Using meters to determine the amount of water being pumped from an irrigation well with the potential of using it in allocation guidelines appeared to be the most

Mel Noffke, manager of the five-county Blue River Association of Groundwater Districts, reported on the Benedict Project in northwest York County where meters regulated the use of irrigation water.

The 26 irrigators who voluntarily took part in the experiment set a goal of 15 inches of withdrawal from the water table per acre and used other technical aids to determine when to apply the water.

The actual average withdrawal from the 4,000-5,000 acres involved was only 13.2 inches, Noffke said.

experiment, told the group that yields from the test acres were good.

'No One Unhappy

"Everyone in the project last spring, when they talked about 15 inches, felt we'd have to make quite a sacrifice," he said. "At the wrap-up meeting at the end, there was not one who was dissatisfied.'

By using the meter and maintaining pumps at peak efficiency, Hirschfeld said there were substantial savings in fuel costs.

"I think we personally - I and the boys - feel the meter is a must . . . if we want to conserve our water," he said.

A majority of those at the meeting apparently aren't so sure.

During a straw vote demanded by an audience member, about two-thirds of the crowd stood to show their opposition to

Cost $1 Million

Noffke estimated it would cost York County irrigators $1 million to install meters.

There was also comment from the floor that allocation procedures are premature until the issue of water ownership is deter-

A member of the crowd drew applause when he claimed that recently adopted irrigation runoff controls are not working.

"Let's make the runoff regulations work

Dwayne Konrad, Extension irrigation engineer at Colorado State University, advised the group to regulate water use before it becomes a necessity as it has in

"You fellows are in a real excellent position to talk about it because you have lots of water," he said. "Allocation is pretty well being dictated in the courts in

Exon Vetoes Higher Interest

Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon used his veto powers for the first time this year to strike down two bills increasing interest rates.

Key supporters of the proposals said they will decide later whether to seek the 30 votes required to override the governor's objections.

But a renewed effort to enact the bills appeared likely. It will be up to Sen. Warren Swigart of Omaha to make the first move. He is the leading spokesman for a bill increasing installment loan rates.

To Decide Later "I'll review it and decide in a couple of days," he said.

If he goes and is successful, Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln will probably follow with an effort to override the veto of a bill increasing maximum interest rates for loans by banks and industrial loan and investment appraise the situation and confer with some people," he said. His bill, LB177, was enacted on a 29-17 vote, but had 31 supporters at one time.

The other measure, LB477, sponsored by the Banking Commerce and Insurance Committee, was approved on a 31-13 vote last week.

LB177 "would certainly cost Luedtke may go anyway. "I'll Nebraska borrowers millions in through an amendment.

in a brief veto message. "At a time when wholesale interest rates (the prime rate) charged the largest and most affluent borrowers are being reduced, it is inconceivable that the Legislature should sanction much higher rates for the average borrower.

"I say, 'No, no, a thousand times no!"

Exon described the bill as "illadvised legislation (which) would dramatically penalize Nebraska citizens.

No Surprise But, he said, "it would not surprise me if the prime legislative supporters and their lobbyist friends would attempt an override of this veto since they nearly have the necessary votes if all can be held in line.

Luedtke's bill originally boosted rates only for industrial loan and investment companies, but the Banking Committee included personal loans by banks maximum interest charge on loans up to $5,000 to 18%. An 18% rate may now be charged up to $1,000, when the maximum drops to 12%.

LB477, which Exon said he vetoed for the same reasons he pointed to in his rejection of LB177, would boost maximum interest charges for installment loans above $1,000.

18% Maximum

An 18% maximum would be allowed on amounts above $500. The 18% rate in current law applies only to amounts between $500 and $1,000, then drops to a maximum of 12%

Unchanged would be the 30% maximum on the first $300, and the 24% limit on the next $200.

LB477 also boosts the maximum loan by small loan companies from $3,000 to $5,000, and would allow lenders to spread payments on loans of more than $2,000 over a 72-

Tax Dollar For Parties Bill Killed

Despite agreement among committee members, spokesmen for the two major parties found themselves on opposing sides of the party contribution question.

Dick White, chairman of the Nebraska Democratic Party, favored the bill, saying it would encourage public participation in the parties while helping to pay for the in-

Lloyd Herbener, executive director of the Republican Party, said his party prefers to take our chances in the open market place for political contributions."

Herbener said taxpayers who chose not to contribute one dollar of their income taxes would in effect be subsidizing those who did, because state expenditures would still have to be met.

The bill's sponsor, Sen. Gary Anderson, estimated the bill would provide each party $50,000 during its first year. Afterwards that figure would rise as it gained public acceptance

Anderson said seven states currently have similar laws.

Committee members pointed out that the bill provided no means candidates for nonpartisan races could reveive aid. That includes legislative and regent candidates. Sen. Dennis Rasmussen of Scotia remarked, 'Let's think of us first.'

Herb Shimek, representing the Nebraska State Education Association, urged passage of the bill, saying it would lessen control of the parties by the few large contributors.

Herbener responded that the Nebraska Republican Party's largest single contributor last year gave $250. "You're not going to buy much influence with that," he

Without the present federal campaign financing for presidential candidates, Herbener estimated that half of the 14 presidential contenders now in the race would have to drop out.

He also noted that in one three-hour period this fall in Lincoln, door-to-door volunteers were able to raise $2,000 for the

Pot Penalty To Be Retained

Lincoln Sen. Roland Luedtke, chairman of the Legislature's Judiciary Committee, said Tuesday his committee would probably revise the new proposed criminal code to retain the maximum seven-day sentence for possession of less than a pound of marijuana.

The current draft of the new criminal code, a 243-page document, lists possession of small amounts of marijuana as a Class III misdemeanor with a maximum penalty of three months in jail.

If it was reduced to a Class IV misdemeanor, it would carry no jail sentence and the fine would be limited to $500.

Committee staffers said a new classification of crime, a Class IIIA misdemeanor, might have to be created to keep the maximum penalty for marijuana possession at seven days.

The effective date of the bill, LB878, would be Jan. 1, 1980. The committee did not act on the proposal.

The hearing attracted the largest crowd of the session. The more than 1,000 persons attending spilled into the Rotunda after taking every available seat in the West Senate Chamber and its galleries.

Under Nebraska laws, a Class I school is elementary only. A Class 6 is a rural high school and Classes 2, 3, 4 and 5 are all kindergarten through high school with the classifications based on population.

Opponents of the bill argued the small schools turn out

Welfare Problems Frustrate Star Staff Writer

"If they want it, let them take Commissioner Bruce Hamilton kept muttering.

The "they" was the State Welfare Department and the "it" was the county's child support collection function.

In its narrowest terms, the issue which frustrated and infuriated the commissioners Tuesday was about $2,000 and three employes who are not getting paid what they were promised.

In its broadest terms, it was another tale about the welfare office who do the same sort of system bureaucracy, a system which uses federal and state money and follows federally mandated rules, but which operates with a local staff. A small staff, housed in the county attorney's office, currently oversees one welfare function of collecting back child support receiving welfare payments.

The staff is paid primarily (97%) with federal and state, three women would be getting funds and, according to the State Welfare Department, is under the direct supervision of Jerry Lemonds, county welfare direc-

This would mean that the more money than their counterparts working in the welfare office just a mile away, thus creating a morale problem with the other welfare employes, Lemonds pointed out. And what Lahners and Lemonds would really like to do to solve the pay and supervision problem is to make Lahner's office completely responsible for child support collections through a contract with the state.

The state will agree to a contract, but only on its terms. Those terms will cost the county about $15,000 a year in extra local tax dollars. The State Welfare Department is willing to sign a contract only if the county picks up 25% of the

Crushing Lancaster County Board met

in a closed executive session Tuesday morning to discuss bids for crushing rock at the countyowned Roca limestone quarry

The discussion was private because of possible legal suits on the rock crushing question, County Board Chairman Bruce Hamulton said.

The rock crushing question has plagued the board since late summer when Schwarck Quarries filed a suit in Lancaster County District Court contesting a contract the county engineer had signed with Constructors Inc. for the rock crushing job. Schwarck Quarries dropped the suit when the county agreed to open up the job to the bidding process. The first set of bids was thrown out when the board found that the advertising rules had not been met.

The second set of bids was also relected because bids were much higher than any earlier prices The board then asked County Engineer Marv Nuernberger to negotiate with both parties - Schwarck and Constructors Inc. — to get the best price. Nuernberger refused, contending that this negotiating with more than one party was a violation of professional ethics.

The county attorney's office apparently will handle the negotiations, according to some people who attended the closeddoor session

The board will reconvene its regular meeting Thursday morning to take action on the rock crushing question.

In other action the board approved an addition to the building of Inland Shores Marinas, Inc. at Branched Oak Lake. The company recently received an off-sale beer license and is expanding its operation to include more space for a cooler and storage area ficials are shaking their heads in dismay over the latest set of federal rules dealing with housing for farm workers.

State Labor Commissioner Jerry Chizek and Don Christenson, rural manpower services supervisor, Tuesday said they expect the rules to seriously cramp their efforts to find jobs for farm workers.

An estimated 700 housing units on farms across the state will have to be inspected and approved before farm workers can be referred for jobs, Christenson

The four-page standards, identical to those laid out for farm workers under the Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA), he said. "I don't believe it's our specify criteria for water supplies, toilets, heating, screening, lighting, cooking, gar-

Should the state fail to inspect farm worker housing, the Labor Department would lose its federal funding for employment services, he said.

Christenson estimated that no more than 5% of migrant labor housing-in the state meets the federal standards.

The standards have been in effect for some time for interstate placement of farm workers. A recent court ruling extended the standards to apply within states as well. As a result, the Labor Depart-

University of Nebraska President D B. Varner announced Tuesday he will recommend that NU Regents on Saturday appoint Dr. Roy A. Young of Oregon State University as the new Lincoln campus chancellor.

To hold high executive office in the University of Nebraska, it must seem a man has to be bald, President D. B. Varner jested as he announced that Roy A. Young of Corvallis, Ore., will become Lincoln campus chancellor.

Referring unsubtly with rolling eyes to his own shiny crown, Varner laughed, "Bald is beautiful." Omaha campus Chancellor Ron Roskens boasts only peach-fuzz summitry. After Young goes to work June 1, only Medical Center Chancellor Robert Sparks will command full executive locks.

Rubbing his own shiny top, Omaha Regent Kermit Hansen quipped that Young - similarly hair-ringed but smooth-topped — is a "highly polished gentleman."

Procedures in

Star Staff Writer

After more public statements Tuesday criticizing "Man. A Course of Study." the Lincoln Board of Education by inaction allowed proposed administrative procedures for the social studies course to go into effect immediately.

Assoc. Supt. for Instruction Ron Brandt reviewed with the board his directive that MACOS teachers honor families' diverse value systems, that schools brief parents on the course annually and provide an alternate social studies program upon parent request

Brandt pointed out that his recommendations are procedures, not board policy. The board has already approved MACOS as part of the public schools recommended curriculum since 1969.

Board members congratulated Brandt on the procedures and took no action to revise them. letting them stand by informal consensus Brandt said elementary school principals will be notified of the requirements immediately

Questions Raised

A House subcommittee of professionals, laymen and educators appointed in 1975 to review MACOS raised some questions about the material and the open-ended philosophy of the couse," Brandt said But he explained his directed procedures conform with that subpanel's three recommendations for suggested school use

'America has never changed its high ideals, but in practice we're still struggling . . . I think education of young people is the

Ms. Donna Polk, a State Labor Department employe, said more than $9 million in federal funds are being spent on the bicentennial "so men can run around in funny little costumes with beards and muskets while white and black children are starving.

That money should go to social programs, she said.

"I guess I'm adamantly against the bicentennial," Ms. Polk said. "The best thing I can hope for on July 4, 1976, is revolution."

Conventions Ratified

Bogota, Colombia (UPI) -Colombia has ratified the copyright conventions of 1971 in but even with all the troubles Paris and 1961 in Rome. The we've had, we've still got conventions cover published works, art and music and entitle foreign artists to charge for the utilization of their works in Colombia as well as vice versa.

Hilton Hotel Muffs Tryout For 'Interno

The Lincoln Hilton had an opportunity to star in a remake of 'The Towering Inferno, Tuesday night, but fortunately missed its chance. Overheated wires on the transformer of the freight elevator sent the Lincoln Fire Department scurrying to the hotel about 10:40 p.m. The motor is located in the basement, just down the hall from Fanny's cocktail lounge. Smoke filled the basement and made its way upstairs, as several of the hotel guests complained of the smell of burning insulation.

The firemen had the situation under control in about five minutes. Smoke was gradually worked out of the basement area through the ventilation system. The people in the bar, however, were apparently unconcerned about such a small thing as a fire and the band in Famy's played

Fire Damages Hill Hatchery Brooder House

A fire in a brooder house at Hill Hatchery, 6000 N. 50th, gave company officials something to brood about Tuesday morning. According to Acting District Fire Chief Bill Baum, hatchery workers had plugged some chick warmer pads into electrical outlets in an unused brooder house, to test them, shortly after $ a.m. At about 10 a.m. they noticed smoke coming from the concrete and metal structure.

The fire apparently started in one of the pads and spread to a wall, an au duct and ceiling insulation causing heavy smoke and considerable interior nitage, Baum suid.

Thousands of people - faces, hands, sweat, nerves.

The $6.3 billion pipeline is being fashioned by a work force that expands and contracts with the arctic winter.

Old men and young women, a handful of illegal aliens, some Vietnamese refugees - all strangers in a strange land. They have flocked to the 798-mile pipeline during the past year and a half. Many are looking for the money to get a new start. Some just crave one last adventure.

Their problems come with them - seldom shared, wrestled with daily - and usually go home with them, along with paychecks that can soar past $1,-000 a week

The pipeline has sprouted 29 camps from the Arctic Ocean to the Gulf of Alaska, earning the collective name, "Skinny City."

Optimism, Stock Split Lift Market

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market railied wih renewed force Tuesday, responding with enthusiasm to optimistic talk about the economy and news of a proposed stock split by US Steel

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 11 57 to 968 75, moving back within eight points of the 27-month high of 976 62 it reached last Wednesday

Gainers outdistanced losers by about a 5-2 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues

Big Board volume increased to 27 66 million shares from 25 34 million on Monday

Turnover in NYSE issues, including activity in those stocks on other markets around the country, had reached 31 93 milhon shares by the time the Big Board closed

The Dow climbed gradually through the morning and early afternoon, showing a gain of about 6 points at mid-afternoon when U.S. Steel said its directors proposed a 3-for-2 stock split to be voted on by shareholders at the company's annual meeting

The Average picked up momentum after that, closing at its high for the day on an hour-byhour basis

US Steeel shares made a large contribution to the Dow's gain, rising 31/4 to 8214 in the NYSE activity on which the average is computed The stock of the big steeel producer has been a market leader over the last year, rising to its highest levels in 15 years. It traded in the mid 20s as recently as 1973 Brokers also noted a general air of optimism about the chances for continued improvement in the economy Speaking with reporters Tuesday morning Alan Greenspan, President Ford's chief econom ic adviser, repeated his belief that the recovery from the recession potentially still has a long way to go Investor interest aside from the U.S. Steeel situation focused on lower-priced issues- which by commonly accepted Wall Street theory means increased public participation Seven of the 10 most active NYSE issues were issues priced under $20 a share, including Evans Products, up 1/2 at 8,

Ramada Inns, % higher at 53%, and Carrier Corp., up 1 at 16% Goodyear Tire & Rubber was another actively traded stock, gaining 18 to 2414 The company

Plainsmen Top Midland, 75-62

By KEN HAMBLETON State College Writer

The Nebraska Wesleyan Plainsmen had to rely on a 23point halftime cushion to help them down the Midland Warriors, 75-62, Tuesday night at Taylor Gym in a Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference game.

The Plainsmen roared to a 51-28 lead at the intermission and appeared to have the game under control. But cold second half shooting and a pressuring Warrior defense cut the margin to seven points with 3:46 left.

Angelo Lilly, who scored 13 of his game high 19 points in the first half, hit a layup and four of four free throws in the final two minutes, though, to help NWU first half. gain its second win over Midland this season

The Plainsmen connected on 19 of 36 first half field goal attempts (53%) while Midland hit just 13 of 34 field goals.

Wesleyan didn't score in the first five minutes of the second half, mussing six straight shots, before Plainsmen guard Bob Knollenberg scored on a fast

Comeback Attempt

Midland, now 5-14 and 1-5 in the NIAC, charged back when reserve Casey Micek and guard Greg West combined for 12 points in the first six minutes of the second half.

But West, who is the Warriors' leading scorer with a 13.6 points per game average, fouled out at

The Plainsmen couldn't find the basket though, hitting eight of 33 field goals in the second half and Midland kept chipping away at the lead, with Micek hitting on four of six from the field. Then with 3:46 left Tim Hansen hit a 15-footer to close the score to 63-56 in NWU's

The Plainsmen were called for holding the ball for five seconds and the Warriors got the tip on the jump ball. But three missed shots and a rebound by Wesleyan's Dwight Peterson NWU forward Bob Otto scored 14 points and teammate Kim Veerhusen tallied 10. Peterson finished with nine for the 5-14, 4-4 Plainsmen.

Three Midland players finished in double figures with Micek and West scoring 12 each and guard Jeff Meyer accounting

Micek grabbed a game high 14 rebounds, as the Warriors outrebounded the Plainsmen 53-47. 'Great First Half'

"That first half was great for us," said NWU coach Irv Peterson, who got his 380th career coaching win. "Our pressure defense forced 18 turnovers and we shot pretty well." Wesleyan had just eight turnovers in the We had kind of a let-down in the second half and I was surprised we could come back like we did," Peterson said. "I was worried about the effect the Hastings game (a 103-67 Wesleyan loss Saturday) might have, but we seemed to put it together tonight at least in the first half."

The Wesleyan win, coupled with Dana's loss to Hastings Tuesday, gives the Plainsmen sole possession of third place in NWU travels to Blair to face Dana on Saturday and then returns home to close out the conference season in a game with Doane.

Norman, Okla. - Last month's Oklahoma-Nebraska basketball game is not a pleasant memory for the Huskers.

We had a terrible effort. We let down and they came back." said NU junior forward Bob Siegel of the 68-67 Husker win on Jan. 21 at the NU Coliseum.

"We beat them by 20 points in Kansas City (75-53 in a preseason tournament affair) and we figured it would be easy again. But it wasn't," said Siegel.

The Huskers led by as many as 14 points in that home contest, but at the end it took two free throws by junior forward Rickey Harris with 12 seconds left to turn a 67-66 deficit into the onepoint win. Even at that, Oklahoma complained that the Huskers fouled several Sooners in the frantic last-second scram-Regardiess, Nebraska meets the Sooners for the third time this season here in a 7 35 p.m. Wednesday Big Eight game at Linvd Noble Center.

Despite the two victories over Oklahoma this season, the Husker task may be considerably tougher here than in Kansas City or Lincoln.

They've won three in a row and they looked real good on television (in a 64-63 victory over Kansasi," Siegel explained "It worked out good for us the last time, but if we aren't ready to play, we won't win It certainly won't be easy to win down

Oklahoma coach Dave Bliss. noting Nebraska's ninth-place national defensive average. praised the Husker defense.

Without a doubt. Nebraska is one of the finest defensive teams in the league and nation," he said. "Coach Cipriano has done an outstanding job with the Huskers. We look for a super ball game and hope we can play as well at home as we played in

The teams have contrasting records. NU is 6-1 and tred with Missouri for the Big Eaght lead while OU is 34 in league play and 6-13 overall (NU is 15-5 overall).

Defeating the same team three straight times in one season has never been easy for Nebraska. A year ago, the Huskers won the first two from OU, only to drop a 65-57 overtime game at Lincoln to the Sooners.

Nebraska has won all four conference road games this season and has generally performed better away from the NU

Fouls Deciding Games

Despite what Nebraska coach Joe Cipriano says about what he considers improved officiating, free throws still are playing an important part in the result of basketball games played by Big Eight Conference schools.

Cipriano said Monday he thought officiating in the conference is improved over recent years because of the work of Bernie Saggau, the new Rig Eight supervisor of basketball officials.

Bernie has had a lot to do with getting things organized," he said. "And we have some good new officials in the league."

Cipriano said he hasn't heard any complaints of coaches about technical fouls being called over bench decorum and that generally the officials have succeeded in keeping good control of the games.

It is interesting to note that in Nebraska's only loss of the conference season the Huskers were outscored at the foul line 18-7 by Missouri while getting three more field goals than the Tigers.

Nebraska has won two games in which the opponents scored more field goals. Kansas had nine more than the Huskers, but was outscored 25-4 at the foul line. Colorado scored five more baskets, but was outshot 26-14 from the free throw line.

An interesting note about Kansas: The Jayhawks have suffered six of their nine losses at the free throw line. They've been guilty of a staggering 377 personal fouls and had 25 men foul out of games. Opponents have scored 82 more points than Kansas at the foul line, exactly offsetting the advantage of 41 more field goals the Jayhawks have made. Both the KU and opponents' point totals are 1,222 for 64.3 point a game averages.

Catching Up On Sports

Nebraska has made 33 more free throws than seven Big Eight opponents and has been outscored from the field by 12 points. Only four Huskers have fouled out - once each for Jerry Fort, Larry Cox, Steve Willis and Allen Holder.

Oops! Nebraska signed just one high school football prospect Tuesday, rather than two as was announced early in the morning. The signee was tackle Calvin Anderson, 4-3, 245, from Minneapolis, Minn. . . . Signals got mixed up in the football office, it seems.

Guard Mike Evans, who led Kansas State's upset victory over Missouri and scored a career high 31 points in a win over Oklahoma State, has been voted Big Eight player-of-the-week. Evans earned the award, however, for his defense on MU's Willie Smith, who was held to seven baskets in 17 attempts, and on OSU's Ronnie Daniel, who hit just five of 17 from the field. Kentucky, finalist last year to UCLA in the NCAA tournament, is 5-6 in the Southeastern Conference and tied for fith place. The loss to Georgia Monday night was only the ninth to the Bulldogs in Kentucky's illustrious basketball history.

When Jack Hartman of Kansas State won his 250th major college basketball game, he remarked: "All it really does is remind you how long you have been coaching." He is in his 14th season at a major school.

Chris Juehring of Davenport West, a Husker football recruit, has been picked to play on the South team in the fourth annual Iowa Shrine Bowl all-star game Aug. 14 at Drake Stadium in Des Momes. Juehring is a running back and linebacker.
